2. CONTENT OF THE CONFLICTS OF INTEREST POLICY

2.1. Definition of conflict of interest

SERVICE PROVIDER defines a conflict of interest as any situation where there is a conflict between the interests of SERVICE PROVIDER or certain persons connected to SERVICE PROVIDER and the duty we owe to a client or between the differing interests of two or more of our clients, to whom SERVICE PROVIDER owes in each case a duty, with a potential result to ensure a gain or benefit to SERVICE PROVIDER, or any connected person or any particular client at the detriment of another client.

2.2. Potential situations of conflicts of interests

(a) Persons whose interests may be in conflict

Conflicts may arise either during the provision of investment and/or ancillary services or a combination thereof or with any other manner between:

- (i) the interests of SERVICE PROVIDER or any Relevant Person or as well as any person connected directly or indirectly with them with a relation of control and the interests of one or more of its clients or
- (ii) the interests of different clients of SERVICE PROVIDER

(b) Potential sources of conflicts

Such situations may occur when SERVICE PROVIDER (or any other Relevant Person) may have a financial benefit or avoid a financial loss, to the detriment of one or more clients or to favor the interests of one client or group of clients against those of another client. This may happen if SERVICE PROVIDER:

- Has, in relation to the result of a service provided to the client or a transaction carried out on behalf of the client, an interest different than the interest of the client.
- Has a financial or other motive to favor the interests of another client or another group of clients to the detriment of the client.
- Carries out the same business activity with the client.
- Receives or will receive from the client or from a third party a benefit in relation to the service, in the form of money, goods or services, which exceeds the level of the usual commission or remuneration for such a service.

2.3. Examples of potential situations of conflict and relevant measures

Conflicts of interest may arise in several situations during the provision of services. SERVICE PROVIDER has identified a number of such potential situations in advance and has taken appropriate steps to assess the risk of their occurrence and, when such risk exists, to avoid them proactively.

In some cases, the way in which SERVICE PROVIDER is organized and provides its services to clients (provided that all relevant internal procedures are applied), may sufficient to prevent the appearance of situations of conflict that would otherwise be considered possible. In other cases, SERVICE PROVIDER has adopted ad hoc arrangements to make sure that specific kinds of situations will not occur or will be identified and addressed in due time.

In particular, SERVICE PROVIDER has adopted effective procedures (including remuneration policies) to prevent or control the exchange of information between relevant persons engaged in activities involving a risk of a conflict of interest, to ensure the separate supervision of activities bearing a risk of material conflicts of interests, to remove direct links between the remuneration of Relevant Persons principally engaged with one activity and the remuneration of different Relevant Persons principally engaged in another activity, to avoid incentives that may lead Relevant Persons to favor their own interests or the company's interests to the potential detriment of any client and to ensure the fair treatment of clients, to prevent or limit any cases of inappropriate influence over the exercise of any particular activity and to control the simultaneous or sequential involvement of any person in separate investment or ancillary services.

Taking into account the activities currently exercised by SERVICE PROVIDER in the context of services that may be provided to you, you may find below some indicative examples of situations that could potentially give rise to conflicts of interest, as well as the relevant measures taken by SERVICE PROVIDER for the avoidance of such situations:

Examples of potential situations	General arrangements or ad hoc measures
SERVICE PROVIDER or a Relevant Person may have an interest in executing its/his personal orders or orders of a client in more favorable conditions than the orders of another client, or in maximizing the client's losses (e.g. if the client is a competitor of or of the Relevant Person)	SERVICE PROVIDER has implemented policies and procedures for the monitoring and (when necessary) restriction of personal transactions of the Relevant Persons. Transactions are processed through automated means, based on the time priority of the reception of such order, thus ensuring that the relevant employees will not be allowed to intervene in your transactions. Conflicts related to the personal capacity of the Client are reported to the compliance function as soon as they are identified.
A Relevant Person may have an interest in recommending to a client a particular transaction, in respect of which SERVICE PROVIDER or the said Relevant Person may receive a benefit from a third party or taking into account the interests of another client. A Relevant Person may recommend to the client a transaction based exclusively on the remunerations to be received by SERVICE PROVIDER or by the employee.	SERVICE PROVIDER does not provide investment advice with respect to FX and CFDs transactions and thus cannot recommend you any particular transactions. When SERVICE PROVIDER provides the investment service of portfolio management through our autotrading platform, all transactions are initiated based on automated systems developed by third parties (signal providers) and their operation is not subject to interventions by persons within AAAFX. Where the third parties developing the automated systems (signal providers) are remunerated based on transaction volumes, such remunerations depend also on the generation of profits, in a way that a signal provider may not be remunerated if his system generates losses during a determined period of time. In addition, SERVICE PROVIDER's auto-trading platform provides to its customers tools that allow them to set parameters and limits to the trading activity generated by automated signals.

SERVICE PROVIDER may be regarded as having an interest in maximizing your trading volumes or in maximizing your losses in order to achieve higher remunerations.	The remuneration that SERVICE PROVIDER receives for the execution of your transactions depends on the volume of your transactions (i.e. a Liquidity Provider remunerates SERVICE PROVIDER by providing a percentage of the spread of your trades or SERVICE PROVIDER charges a fixed percentage commission on your trade). However: - SERVICE PROVIDER does not provide investment advice to you with respect to your trades and, thus, cannot recommend you any particular transactions. - To this moment SERVICE PROVIDER does not trade as your counterparty and does not receive remunerations from Liquidity Providers based on your losses. - SERVICE PROVIDER does not have a way to influence the outcome of your transactions and the persons in charge of the supervision of the processing of your orders are not remunerated based on your trading volumes or losses. - SERVICE PROVIDER monitors regularly the operation of the systems used for the processing of clients' orders in a way to exclude any human intervention that is not necessary for the normal operation of such systems. - SERVICE PROVIDER does not have any interests in the profits realized by Liquidity Providers where such Liquidity Providers trade against SERVICE PROVIDER's positions. - In accordance with the applicable best execution policy, SERVICE PROVIDER is prohibited from directing your transactions to an Execution Venue based on the remunerations to be received by SERVICE PROVIDER.

In addition to all the above measures, SERVICE PROVIDER has an internal audit function and a compliance function which are in charge of controlling the application of SERVICE PROVIDER's legal and/or regulatory obligations and internal procedures, including the above measures and the satisfaction of the requirement to avoid situations of conflicts of interest.

3. DISCLOSURES AND RECORDS

3.1. Disclosure of conflict of interest

When the measures taken by SERVICE PROVIDER to avoid or manage situations of conflicts of interest are not sufficient to ensure, with reasonable confidence, that the risk of damage to clients' interests will be prevented, SERVICE PROVIDER will disclose to the client the specific conflict of interest and the steps taken to mitigate the risks associated thereto, with a durable medium, before providing the service affected by the situation of conflict.

3.2. Record keeping

SERVICE PROVIDER maintains a record, which is regularly updated, of the kinds of investments and ancillary services or investment activities carried out by SERVICE PROVIDER or on its behalf in which a conflict of interest entailing a material risk of damage to the interests of one or more clients has arisen.

3.3. Review

SERVICE PROVIDER carries out regular internal review of the measures and procedures applied to ensure that they remain appropriate, effective, comprehensive and proportionate to the nature, scale and complexity of its business activities, especially in terms of the nature and the range of the investment services and activities it undertakes in terms of its business activities, and that appropriate measures for the correction of any deficiencies will be taken without undue delay.
